Economic and Market Commentary July 2020

In the U.S., the 2-year Treasury note yield fell to 0.11% at the end of July from 0.15% at the end of June. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury was 0.53%, down from 0.66% at the end of June. Corporate spreads continued to tighten in July and major equity indices again produced positive returns on the month.

The July FOMC meeting ended with no new guidance on interest rates but some strong hints that more fiscal policy is desperately needed. The Committee indicated that "the path of the economy will depend significantly on the course of the virus" but provided no additional details on forward guidance. Regarding interest rates, Powell said that the Fed has no intention of pivoting on rates or abandoning the lending/liquidity facilities any time soon. The Fed is in this "for a very long time." Chair Powell said, "we are not even thinking about thinking about thinking about raising rates," and "I wouldn't look for us to be sending signals about cutting back facilities or anything like that for a very long time." Like it or not, low rates and ample Fed support for markets are here to stay. The Fed also extended by three months the operation of all of its emergency lending programs to support economic activity during the coronavirus pandemic. The nine programs will function through December 31.

The unemployment rate was 11.1% in June and firms added 4.8 million net, new jobs to nonfarm payrolls in June. Still, data indicated that while temporary unemployment improved, permanent job losses were rising. The US economy (GDP) contracted at an annual rate of -32.9% in 2020 Q2, or -9.5% from Q1, with the big bulk stemming from a decline in consumer spending on services. Renewed outbreaks in parts of the U.S. delayed state and local governments' plans to continue reopening their economies. Meanwhile, Congress could not agree to an extension of the $600 per week enhanced unemployment benefits before the benefits expired at the end of the month.

Across the Atlantic, the European Union agreed to a historic stimulus package of €750 billion, which will be funded via joint bond issuance. Global central banks also continued to provide accommodation and expand their balance sheets.

FL. Trust Short Term Bond Fund

The Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund posted a total return of +0.26% in July, compared to ICE BofA 1-3 Year Treasury Index return of +0.10%. Fiscal year-to-date performance for fund was +3.77%, compared to +3.57% for the index for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 2019. The net 30-Day SEC Yield for the Short-Term Bond Fund was 0.63% at the end of July, down from 0.72% ending June.

The Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund holds a diversified mix of sectors for income generation. We remain constructive on short-dated credit given attractive yields, lack of supply and solid fundamentals, and the Federal Reserve's corporate purchase programs provide strong technical support. Short duration corporate spreads (1-3 year) continued to tighten in July, though remain wider versus December 2019 levels. We maintained a neutral duration position versus the benchmark of 1.9 years. Our focus remains to maintain liquidity and our government allocations. We favor a modest allocation to agency mortgage securities for the portfolio as these markets will remain supported by Fed purchases.

The fund is assigned Fitch rating agency's highest Fund Credit Quality Rating and Fund Market Risk Sensitivity Rating of AAAf/S1. The liquidity of the fund is very strong, with 46% of funds invested in Treasuries, agencies and government related securities. There were no contributions or redemptions to the fund during July.
