Economic and Market Commentary April 2021

The front end of the US Treasury yield curve remains well-anchored, though the curve modestly flattened in April. The yield on the 2-year US Treasury note yield remained at 0.16%. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury declined 11 basis points to 1.63%. The yield on the 30-year Treasury also fell 11 basis points to 2.30% at April month end.

The unemployment rate fell to 6% in March as firms added 916,000 net, new jobs to nonfarm payrolls over the month. Despite nearly a million jobs being added, Fed Chair Powell said the committee had not yet seen “substantial further progress” towards their labor market goals. In April, the unemployment rate modestly rose to 6.1%, as the labor force participation rate increased from 61.5% to 61.7% (more workers joined the labor force). The US economy grew at an annual rate of 6.4% in Q1, boosted by strong increases in personal consumption expenditures (PCE), nonresidential fixed investment, federal government spending, residential fixed investment, and state and local government spending that were partly offset by decreases in private inventory investment and exports. Headline consumer prices (consumer price index, CPI), registered at 2.6% year-over-year in March. Core CPI, which excludes volatile food and energy prices, rose 1.6% compared to 12 months ago.

Questions related to Fed tapering of asset purchases and those concerning inflation dominated the Q&A portion of the press conference following the April FOMC meeting. Regarding tapering, Chair Powell made it clear that with 8.4 million workers still unemployed relative to pre-Covid levels, the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) would need to see 4-5 months of strong job growth (~1 million + jobs) before a conversation about tapering or slowing their monthly purchase program of mortgage and Treasury bonds begins. Regarding “inflation,” Powell called the supply issues related to reopening that are causing some prices to spike (i.e., a shortage of rental cars in Hawaii) “bottleneck effects.” Some bottlenecks will take several quarters to solve, but they will eventually be resolved. Bottom line: Tapering discussions have not yet even started, and the Fed has signaled that it will look past temporary upticks in prices, meaning a rate hike remains far off.

FL Trust Short Term Bond Fund

The Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund posted a total return of +0.12% in April, compared to ICE BofA 1-3 Year Treasury Index return of +0.05%. The fiscal-year-to-date (October 1), total return was +0.31%, versus 0.05% for the benchmark. The net 30-Day SEC Yield for the Short-Term Bond Fund was 0.33% at the end of April, up one basis point from March month end. Credit spreads modestly tightened in April, contributing to outperformance versus the benchmark. We modestly trimmed consumer asset-backed security exposure on strength in the sector, taking profits.

The Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund holds a diversified mix of sectors for income generation. We identify the most efficient sources of income for the portfolio, with a focus on high-quality liquidity using government sectors. The portfolio continues to hold diversified exposures to non-government sectors for income generation, and we have been active in the new issue market. We continue to diversify our credit exposure through corporates, asset-backed securities (ABS) and mortgage-backed securities (MBS) to maintain different sources of high-quality income. We remain constructive on short-dated credit, as income will likely be a key driver of total return going forward. While all-in yields are low, incremental yield from spreads remain attractive and demand for short-dated credit remains robust.

The fund is assigned Fitch rating agency's highest Fund Credit Quality Rating and Fund Market Risk Sensitivity Rating of AAAf/S1. The liquidity of the fund is very strong, with 44% of funds invested in Treasuries, Agencies, and government related securities. There were no deposits or withdrawals in the fund over April.
