Economic and Market Commentary August 2021

The yield on the 2-year US Treasury note rose two basis points to 0.21% over the month. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury rose 24 basis points to 1.31%.

Despite rising Covid-19 cases and concerns of a slowing economic recovery, August was a good month for economic data. Nearly a million jobs (+934,000) were added to nonfarm payrolls in July, bringing the unemployment rate down by half a percent to 5.4%. Year-over-year growth in consumer prices appeared to stabilize, with headline CPI staying flat at 5.4% and core CPI down slightly to 4.3%. The Federal Reserve's preferred inflation gauge, core PCE, was more subdued at 3.6% year-over-year for July. Fed Chair Jerome Powell spoke at the virtual Jackson Hole Economic Symposium at the end of the month, sharing that the Committee felt "it could be appropriate to start reducing the pace of asset purchases this year" if the economy performs as expected.

However, the August jobs report, released the first week of September, was disappointing. Nonfarm payroll employment rose just 235,000 in August, far below consensus expectations of 725,000, while the unemployment rate declined by 0.2 percentage point to 5.2%. So far this year, monthly job growth has averaged 586,000. Despite the progress, the U.S. remains 9.3 million jobs short of its pre-pandemic trend, so 235,000 additional jobs are not nearly enough. Hiring stalled entirely in the leisure and hospitality sector, no doubt feeling the Delta downdraft acutely. Hiring data was revised up for June and July but not by enough to offset August's disappointment. As such, we doubt the August jobs report will push the labor market beyond the Fed's self-imposed "substantial further progress" threshold.

In addition, economic growth momentum has clearly slowed in recent weeks. Payden has revised downward full-year growth expectations (from 7.4% to 6.2%) and may look to decrease again. One widely followed real-time activity tracker, the Atlanta Fed's NowCast for Q3 GDP, has slumped to just over 3% annualized, down from over 6% just a few weeks ago. It's not only the U.S. economy, the global data has lost steam as well. China's manufacturing activity gauges are teetering around the 50 level (implying only slight expansion) for the first time in nearly 18 months, indicating global momentum has stalled.

Florida Trust Day to Day Fund

The Florida Trust Day to Day Fund posted a total return of 0.01% in August, versus the benchmark ICE BofA Three-Month Treasury Index return of 0.00%. The fiscal-year-to-date (October 1), total return was 0.14%, versus 0.06% for the benchmark. The net 7-day SEC yield of the Day to Day Fund remained at two basis points to 0.02% in July. Ultra-short yields remain low. Comparable prime institutional government funds produced an average yield of 0.01%. There remains a large supply of cash in the market due to ongoing Fed balance sheet expansion, the drawdown of the Treasury General Account (TGA), and the unresolved debt ceiling level.

We continue to diversify credit exposure by investing in corporates, commercial paper, asset-backed, and government sectors to maintain diversified sources of high-quality income, with a focus on liquidity. Short maturity repurchase agreements backed by US Treasury collateral are also utilized. Short-term investments continue to be in very high demand, and opportunities for yield are challenging to identify. We expect to remain active in purchases of corporate and asset-backed securities, while simultaneously maintaining ample liquidity levels. The broader themes of fiscal spending and inflation tolerance combined with accommodative monetary policy will keep very short interest rates contained. Until a resolution is reached in the government debt ceiling debate, the Treasury will continue to spend down cash on hand, forcing negative Treasury bill supply. This increase in reserves and reduction in bill supply, combined with the scarcity of short agency and corporate issuance, will keep spreads contained.

The fund remains highly liquid with approximately 41% of the portfolio invested in overnight and short-term securities. Additionally, 47% of the portfolio is invested in government or government guaranteed securities, also enhancing liquidity. The weighted-average maturity of the portfolio is currently 50 days. The fund processed over $80 million in net redemptions during the month. The fund is assigned Fitch rating agency's highest Money Market Fund Rating of AAA mmf.
