Economic and Market Commentary August 2021

The yield on the 2-year US Treasury note rose two basis points to 0.21% over the month. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury rose 24 basis points to 1.31%.

Despite rising Covid-19 cases and concerns of a slowing economic recovery, August was a good month for economic data. Nearly a million jobs (+934,000) were added to nonfarm payrolls in July, bringing the unemployment rate down by half a percent to 5.4%. Year-over-year growth in consumer prices appeared to stabilize, with headline CPI staying flat at 5.4% and core CPI down slightly to 4.3%. The Federal Reserve's preferred inflation gauge, core PCE, was more subdued at 3.6% year-over-year for July. Fed Chair Jerome Powell spoke at the virtual Jackson Hole Economic Symposium at the end of the month, sharing that the Committee felt "it could be appropriate to start reducing the pace of asset purchases this year" if the economy performs as expected.

However, the August jobs report, released the first week of September, was disappointing. Nonfarm payroll employment rose just 235,000 in August, far below consensus expectations of 725,000, while the unemployment rate declined by 0.2 percentage point to 5.2%. So far this year, monthly job growth has averaged 586,000. Despite the progress, the U.S. remains 9.3 million jobs short of its pre-pandemic trend, so 235,000 additional jobs are not nearly enough. Hiring stalled entirely in the leisure and hospitality sector, no doubt feeling the Delta downdraft acutely. Hiring data was revised up for June and July but not by enough to offset August's disappointment. As such, we doubt the August jobs report will push the labor market beyond the Fed's self-imposed "substantial further progress" threshold.

In addition, economic growth momentum has clearly slowed in recent weeks. Payden has revised downward full-year growth expectations (from 7.4% to 6.2%) and may look to decrease again. One widely followed real-time activity tracker, the Atlanta Fed's NowCast for Q3 GDP, has slumped to just over 3% annualized, down from over 6% just a few weeks ago. It's not only the U.S. economy, the global data has lost steam as well. China's manufacturing activity gauges are teetering around the 50 level (implying only slight expansion) for the first time in nearly 18 months, indicating global momentum has stalled.

FL. Trust Short Term Bond Fund

The Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund posted a total return of 0.02% in August, compared to ICE BofA 1-3 Year Treasury Index return of -0.01%. The fiscal-year-to-date (October 1), total return was 0.50%, versus 0.13% for the benchmark. The net 30-Day SEC Yield for the Short-Term Bond Fund was 0.31% at the end of August, up two basis points from July month end.

The Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund holds a diversified mix of sectors for income generation. We identify the most efficient sources of income for the portfolio, with a focus on high-quality liquidity. Currently tight spreads and light supply have limited our ability to add further to government-related and agency allocations in the portfolio. We continue to emphasize a balance between credit diversification and quality using corporates, asset-backed securities (ABS) and mortgage-backed securities (MBS), to maintain diversified sources of high-quality income. We utilize corporate issuance to optimize positioning and exposure to floating rate securities to generate portfolio income without extending duration. We increased the floating rate allocation via ABS purchases in August. We also purchased 3-year corporate securities from stalwart issuers such as American Honda and Caterpillar. The modestly short duration positioning versus the benchmark helps mitigate the impact of rising rates. While all-in yields are low, incremental yield from spreads remain attractive and demand for short-dated credit remains robust.

The fund is assigned Fitch rating agency's highest Fund Credit Quality Rating and Fund Market Risk Sensitivity Rating of AAAf/S1. The liquidity of the fund is very strong, with 36% of funds invested in Treasuries, Agencies, and government related securities. The fund did not process any withdrawals or contributions in August.
