Economic and Market Commentary May 2023

Financial markets were swayed throughout May by two crucial issues: debt ceiling negotiations and enduring inflationary pressures. Initially, yields on U.S. Treasury bills maturing near the expected debt ceiling "X-date" exceeded 7% before retreating once an agreement to raise the debt ceiling appeared. Concurrently, the high U.S. inflation rate, highlighted by a 4.7% core PCE in April, worried investors as goods prices unexpectedly increased. Responding to persistent inflation, Federal Reserve officials increased the federal funds rate target to 5.00-5.25%; as anticipated. The central bank indicated that determining the need for more hikes would depend on the economic data, the lagged effects of monetary policy, and financial market activity

Meanwhile, the stubbornly high inflation rate, with core PCE at 4.7% for April, became a cause for concern, notably as goods prices unexpectedly rose. Despite this, the labor market showed resilience, reverting to a 3.4% unemployment rate—a cycle low. In addition, banking stresses appeared to ease. Still, the rise in the utilization of the Fed's Bank Term Funding Program from $81 billion to $92 billion from April to May signals continued underlying tension. Nevertheless, the ongoing stress has not dampened hopes among investors for a "soft landing," particularly given the labor market's stability. The 2-year US Treasury note rose 39 basis points to 4.40%. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury rose to 3.64%, up from 3.42% at the end of April. The yield on the 30-year Treasury rose 19 bps to 3.86%. Unemployment reverted to 3.4%, a cycle low as non-farm payrolls grew by 253K in April (estimate 185K). Wages grew 4.4% in April from a year earlier, slightly higher than the 4.3% annual increase in March.

Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund

The STBF had a -0.11% total return for May compared to the benchmark ICE BofA 1-3 Year US Treasury index of -0.35%. Fiscal year 2023 is off to a strong start, with the fiscal year-to-date total return for the STBF +2.57% compared to +2.21% for the benchmark. The net 30-Day SEC Yield for the Short-Term Bond Fund was 4.31% on 5/31, up from 3.93% as of the year end.

Over longer time periods, the combination of income earned, and active total return management should result in returns outperforming the yield of the portfolio. With the higher yields currently available to investors, income earned in the portfolio gets reinvested at more favorable rates. With higher starting yields, the carry, or income earned, of the portfolio provides a larger buffer against any further increase in interest rates.

The STBF remains conservative with ample liquidity and an up-in-quality diversified mix of credit sectors for income generation. We continue to favor a healthy allocation to liquidity and a defensive positioning in corporates, and floating rate securities where available. The fund remains in a modestly defensive duration position - the duration of the fund is 1.5 years, versus the index of 1.8. While we look to extend duration, it is more challenging with an inverted yield curve: the fund would give up some yield to extend duration (e.g., by purchasing 2- or 3-year Treasuries versus a 3- or 6- month Treasury). Over the next few months, we believe we should be able to move closer to neutral. Given the recent volatility, we are keeping a focus on liquidity. In our view, the Fed Funds rate is likely at or near the terminal rate (ending level for this cycle) and will remain near current levels for longer than current market expectations. In addition, even though the Fed has signaled a pause in increases, it is conceivable that we might encounter even higher policy rates if inflation remains this stubborn. This backdrop is likely to result in continued market volatility as the market continues to parse the impact of tighter financial conditions, negative growth pressures, and continued restrictive monetary policy.

The fund is assigned Fitch rating agency's highest Fund Credit Quality Rating and Fund Market Risk Sensitivity Rating of AAAf/S1. The liquidity of the fund is very strong, with 34% of funds invested in Treasuries and government related securities. Net withdrawals for May were ~$14 million.
