Economic and Market Commentary August 2023

The July U.S. Consumer Price Index (CPI) showed a second month of easing price pressures. Core CPI, which excludes food and energy prices, rose by just 0.16% but remains well above the Fed's 2% target at 4.7% year-over-year. Declining commodity prices helped bring down headline inflation while services prices remained elevated. U.S. labor markets continued to exhibit resilience, with the unemployment rate declining to 3.5%. Stellar consumer spending data topped expectations following another rate hike in July, with retail sales rising by 0.7% in August, compared to 0.3% in July. Although cooling inflation and tight labor markets are fueling the possibility of a "soft landing" soon, in his much-anticipated remarks at the Jackson Hole Economic Symposium, Fed Chair Powell reinforced that there is still a long way to go to bring inflation down to the 2% target. Globally, economic data from other countries has not reflected the same resilience.

The 2-year US Treasury fell two basis points ("bps") to 4.86%. The 10-year Treasury rose 15 bps to 4.11%, and the 30-year rose 20 bps to 4.21%. The 10-year yield rose to highs not seen since 2007 as market participants digested strong economic news, managed more Treasury issuance needed to finance the deficit, and grappled with Japan's Yield Curve Control strategy. An auction of two-year Treasury notes drew the highest yield since 2006 after the bond market yield surge that intensified in anticipation of another Federal Reserve rate hike. The $45 billion was awarded at 5.02% and was the highest yield since before the financial crisis.

At the annual Jackson Hole Economic Symposium, Jerome Powell expressed that the Fed was seeing progress, but its job remained unfinished. Powell lit a fire under the bond market last August. This year, his speech was longer and acknowledged the progress made on inflation. Headline inflation was 7% a year ago and is "3.3% as of July." He also noted improvement in core inflation, dividing underlying inflation into three parts: core goods, housing, and non-housing services. He's hopeful for the continued progress on all three. However, core goods prices remain above pre-COVID levels, housing may cool with a lag but is still excessively high, and non-housing services are in lockstep with the unemployment rate near cycle lows. As Chair Powell framed it, policymakers' choice is to hold or hike, NOT to hold or cut, as many bond investors now anticipate.

Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund

The STBF had a 0.44% total return for August compared to the benchmark ICE BofA 1-3 Year US Treasury index of 0.39%. The fiscal year-to-date total return for the STBF was +3.46% compared to +2.48% for the benchmark. The net 30-Day SEC Yield for the Short-Term Bond Fund was 4.77% on 8/31, up from 3.93% as of the 2022-year end.

The STBF remains well-positioned with ample liquidity and an up-in-quality diversified mix of credit sectors for income generation. We continue to favor a healthy allocation to liquidity as well as corporates and securitized bonds, and floating rate securities where available. The fund has a headline duration of 1.4 years, versus the index duration of 1.8. The fund holds a 14% allocation to floating rate securities. These bonds enhance the overall yield of the fund – these positions average a near 8% yield - but do not contribute to duration. Over the coming months, we will look to move closer to a neutral headline duration, focusing on corporate credit purchases in the 2-3-year space. In addition, the inverted yield curve means shorter Treasury securities are currently more attractive, yield-wise, versus longer options.

Given recent volatility, we are keeping a focus on liquidity. In our view, the Fed Funds rate is closer to the terminal rate (ending level for this cycle) and will remain near current levels for longer than current market expectations. In addition, the Fed has signaled their appetite for maintaining higher policy rates as inflation, though improved, is still high, and the labor market still strong, though with the beginnings of strain. This backdrop is likely to result in continued market volatility as the investors continue to parse the impact of modestly tighter financial conditions, growth pressures, and continued restrictive monetary policy.

The STBF is assigned Fitch rating agency's highest Fund Credit Quality Rating and Fund Market Risk Sensitivity Rating of AAAf/S1. The liquidity of the fund is very strong, with 31% of funds invested in Treasuries and government related securities. There were ~$18 million in withdrawals in August.
