Economic and Market Commentary January 2024

In the US, the yield on the 2-year Treasury note fell four basis points ("bps") to 4.21% in January. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury rose three bps to 3.91% and the yield on the 30-year Treasury rose 14 bps to 4.17% during the month.

In January, economic data portrayed a U.S. economy growing above trend, with slowing inflation, and a strong labor market. In other words, U.S. economic data reflects a "soft landing," where inflation eases to the Federal Reserve's (Fed's) 2% target without a recession. In the fourth quarter of 2023, U.S. real GDP grew at an annual rate of 3.3%, powered by resilient U.S. consumers. Consequently, the full-year's economic growth clocked in at 3.1%, making 2023 the fifth-best year since 2000. In addition to the strong economic growth, inflation subsided meaningfully, as the year-over-year rate of core Personal Consumption Expenditures (PCE) Price Index decreased into what we refer to as the "green zone" at 2.9%. The "green zone" means the underlying inflation trend is approaching the Fed's target. And if that wasn't enough good news, the U.S. labor market remains resilient, as the three-month moving average of nonfarm payroll employment monthly change increased to 289,000 in January 2024, evidence that underlying job growth remains strong. Stellar job growth kept the unemployment rate at 3.7%. With this backdrop, the Fed may reduce its policy rate later this year, but there is little urgency to do so, contrary to the bond market implied 6-7 rate cuts for 2024.

At the first FOMC meeting of 2024, the Fed held the fed funds rate steady at 5.25 – 5.50% for the fourth consecutive gathering. During the press conference, Fed Chair Jerome Powell reframed the "threshold" for policy easing in 2024, emphasizing that rate cuts might arrive sooner if policymakers can be "confident that [inflation is] moving sustainably on to 2%."In addition, Chair Powell also noted policymakers no longer see a robust labor market or above-trend economic growth as obstacles to cutting rates. Instead, unexpected weakening in the labor market could prompt earlier rate cuts. However, chances of a rate reduction in March are unlikely, as policymakers need to see a few more months of progress reflected in inflation data before achieving greater comfort with easing monetary policy. Consequently, bond investors pushed back their expectations of the first rate cut to May while still pricing in 140 basis points of cuts by year-end. In our view, if the unemployment rate doesn't falter and inflation continues cooling towards 2%, rate cuts are likely to occur, possibly starting in May. However, we still think the market is overly optimistic about the magnitude of its expectations for rate cuts.

Florida Trust Short Term Bond Fund

The STBF had a +0.53% total return for January compared to the benchmark ICE BofA 1-3 Year US Treasury index of +0.39%. The fiscal year-to-date total return for the STBF is +3.05% compared to +2.89% for the benchmark. The net 30-Day SEC Yield for the Short-Term Bond Fund was 4.40% on 1/31, compared to 4.61% as of 2023-year end.

The STBF remains well-positioned with ample liquidity and an up-in-quality diversified mix of credit sectors for income generation. We continue to favor a high-quality tilt in our credit positioning. We currently favor AAA-rated asset-backed securities (ABS) over corporates, as spread potential over similar maturity Treasuries is more attractive for the former. Within corporates, we favor high-quality large banks (i.e., issuers such as Morgan Stanley, JP Morgan, and Royal Bank of Canada) where we find potential for spread tightening. The fund has a headline duration of 1.65 years, versus the index duration of 1.80. The fund holds a 12% allocation to floating rate securities. These bonds enhance the overall yield of the fund – these positions have an average yield over 7%, but do not contribute to duration / interest rate risk.

The change in messaging from the Fed starting in December 2023, making it clear we should expect rate cuts in 2024, helps determine positioning for the fund. Current duration (interest rate risk) positioning should help the fund outperform the Treasury benchmark as the Fed starts cutting rates. In addition, the still-inverted yield curve means shorter Treasury securities are currently more attractive, yield-wise, versus longer options. Still, as we consider reinvestment risk – rates may stay higher for some time, but lower rates are on the horizon - investing in non-Treasury sectors can offer comparable or higher yields.

The STBF is assigned Fitch rating agency's highest Fund Credit Quality Rating and Fund Market Risk Sensitivity Rating of AAAf/S1. The liquidity of the fund is very strong, with 28% of funds invested in Treasuries and government related securities. There were no cash flows in the fund during January.
